POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

There is a striking parallel between the bitter civil war which has now flared into the open in Washington, with President Roosevelt at violent loggerheads with congress, and the fierce feud which raged in California during the period that ex-Governor Olson and the state legislature were embroiled in constant and costly warfare. The issue, basically, is the same.

The California legislature, during the Olson regime, rebelled against attempted dictation by the governor's office. And the congress, after years of knuckling under, is now in angry rebellion against rough shod dictation from the White House, with even the leaders in the President's own party in full cry against him.

In the final show-down in California, Governor Olson went down to crushing defeat—beaten in the legislature on the program he demanded, and beaten at the polls when he sought reelection and vindication. And this may well be prophetic of what lies ahead for President Roosevelt, for the issue now is not Republicans against Democrats, but congress against the President.

This much is certain: The American people, particularly during war-time, when the need for unity is desperately apparent, will not tolerate a house divided against itself, any more than California voters would put up with it. Either the congress or the President will be repudiated at the forthcoming elections, for it is now crystal clear that the two cannot work together.

President Roosevelt's violent message in vetoing the tax bill, in which he bitterly assailed congress, even to the point of questioning the integrity of its members, will probably go down in history as the most costly and tragic mistake of his career—a mistake which is certain to hinder the war effort, due to needless political conflict, and which may result in his repudiation at the polls in November.

The temper of Mr. Roosevelt's fellow Democrats was sharply evidenced when more Democrats voted against the President than voted for him in the house roll-call on a motion to override his veto of the tax bill. The vote to override his veto, 229 to 95, was one of the most severe rebukes ever administered by

Ruth Cousins One Of Three Winners In G. E. Audition

The many friends of Miss Ruth Cousins, and the many others who have enjoyed her singing will be delighted to learn that she is one of the three winners in the district final auditions in San Francisco that have been held in the General Electric talent search for an "Hour of Charm" vocalist.

These three youthful singers, Joyce Scott of Burlingame, Ruth Cousins of Campbell, and Jean Reineke, Berkeley, were selected from 216 contestants, many of them with more training and experience.

The first round of auditions lasted through four days, by which time 16 had been selected. These were narrowed down to five from whom the three were chosen, two of whom had been considered winners from the start.

Later, when the judges saw as well as heard the winners they felt doubly vindicated in their choice.

The transcriptions of the three voices have been sent east, along with photos, where final judgment will be made in competition with similar threesomes from 86 American cities.

Ruth graduated from the local high school last June, and considers that a great deal of the credit for her success belongs to C. P. Klassen, director of vocal music in the school. She was a member of the a cappella choir and other musical groups, and did numerous solo numbers under his instruction.

It would be very wonderful if she won the final award but she is only at the beginning of a promising musical career.

1st Lt. Howard Lillingston home on furlough after more than a year in Africa, Sicily and Italy, with his wife and daughter are alternating this week between Berkeley and Campbell. He leaves Saturday to report at San Antonio, Texas, and will be accompanied by Mrs. Lillingston. The lieutenant is a railroad civil engineer and was with a unit building bridges and railroads in reconquered areas and for advancing forces.

That vote, coupled with the action of the senate in also overriding the veto by a smashing margin and in re-electing Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky as its majority leader, after Barkley had broken with the President and bitterly condemned him, constituted the worst legislative setback Mr. Roosevelt has suffered in 11 years in office. And that, too, has a close parallel in California, back in the Olson days, when the Democratic-controlled Assembly tossed out Mr. Olson's speaker of the house—and installed one of its own selection.

Ed Genasci Home For Brief Visit; Calls At Press

The editor of the Press enjoyed an informative talk Monday with Ed Genasci, who was home over the weekend.

He had with him a copy of the Feb. 23 edition of "The Wildcat and Shot 'n Shell," publication at Camp San Luis Obispo, which carries a full page of pictures of fire equipment and firemen in action at the camp. One of these photos is of Fire Chief Genasci, Inspector Spencer Allen and Assistant Fire Chief Ed E. Hemsley.

Another one is of a 12-cylinder triple-combination truck that can send "colossal" gallons of water a minute. The full battery of equipment and an almost limitless water supply keep fire loss and damage down to a minimum.

$4500 Red Cross Campaign Goal

The 1944 campaign for funds for the Red Cross war fund from the Campbell district will start March 8 with Robert Weaver as chairman and Mrs. C. E. Fagalde, Mr. Ed Hopkins, Mr. Ray Bishop and Mrs. Lenore Weaver as lieutenants. We are asked to raise $4500 this time, which is quite a bit more than last year, and for the very good reason that every demand made upon the Red Cross for the year 1943-44 is in every instance, double, or more than it was in 1942-43.

Let's make this a Red cross and not a Black cross.

Sgt. G. Murray Cook has been moved again, and is now at Will Rogers field, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Father Corbett of Santa Clara U. Is Guest Speaker

Budd Levenberg, presiding at Tuesday's Kiwanis meeting, presented Father James Corbett of the University of Santa Clara, who gave an inspirational message on the subject of Brotherhood week.

He spoke of the high degree of tolerance existing in this country, such as exists in no other place in the world. He noted in this respect that our boys in combat stand out not in hate or intolerance but in the spirit of our having something to give to the whole world, our view and outlook on living as it exists in our United States of America.

Father Corbett, who has studied at Louvain and at Rome, stated also that at Rome under Fascist regime, men were produced who were merely automatons. Thinking people were not encouraged.

In his own teaching of educational work among military students at the university he endeavors to have the students really think and work out their problems. He believes that if they are taught self-reliability and sound basic principles the post-war conditions will be such that we will not have to worry too much about them.

Visitors were Earl King of San Jose club and D. C. Heath of the Los Gatos club. Heath came as a delegate from his club to invite the Campbell Kiwanians to a celebration of Charter night, to be held at the Los Gatos History club house on March 9 at 7 o'clock, which will be a ladies' night.

Next week, new members will be inducted by the education committee, Ira R. Abbott, chairman.

Chief Gunner's Mate Ira Ayer Beal of Campbell, but credited to San Jose, was prominently mentioned in an article by Joe Alex Morris, "The Nazis Get Licked in Greenland," which was published in the Feb. 26 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Beal, 23 has been in the coast guard over five years, and has spent two years on the Greenland coast, where he learned to speak Eskimo and became an expert with dog teams.

Morris told of the American task force sent on two coast guard cutters to destroy a German radio and weather station on that island and how Beal came to the rescue when an anti-aircraft gun on board his cutter misfired and how he later aided his commanding officer, Capt. Carl Christian von Paulsen, in planting TNT to break the ice loose from the cutter.

Beal was also a crew member of the coast guard cutter Hamilton which aided passengers aboard the President Harding when the liner was damaged in a storm off the east coast three years ago.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Beal of Rincon avenue, Ira Jr. is a native Campbell boy and graduate of local schools. He was active in the Sea Scouts here shortly before his enlistment.

Youth Center Committees Meet

Progress of plans for the Campbell youth center were reviewed at the meeting of the youth council held at the little theater of the high school Tuesday night, Feb. 29. Reports from committees were heard. The leadership committee, Mrs. J. W. Knowles, chairman, reported their contacts with Harold Belyew of Los Gatos, whose volunteer services the committee has accepted for the opening nights of the center. The time set for the opening is Saturday evening, April 15.

Member groups of the youth council are urged to make their contributions to the treasurer, Mrs. Edna Flagg, at the earliest possible moment. Individuals wishing to make contributions may do so voluntarily. There will be no campaign for funds.

The Kiwanis club will undertake the painting of the youth center, the present scout hall on north Third street in the near future. Young people and others desiring to help may get in touch with Ray Mathis, in charge of the work.

A program committee of young people and adults will plan the opening night for the center. It will be an event of outstanding importance for the youth of the community.

Miss Gladys Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hughes who has been awaiting call is now Ensign Hughes (N.C.) in the USNR, serving in the U. S. Naval hospital at Oakland.

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL P. T. A.

(Conclusion)

The first annual Fathers' night was inaugurated and 200 parents and teachers were served dinner. PTA Fathers' night has become an institution in Campbell. The following year the gymnasium kitchen was equipped to the point where refreshments were served to visiting teams after games, and this had a tendency to foster friendship and good fellowship between Campbell students and those of other schools.

During this time the grammar school PTA was showing a steady growth, and the equipping of the cafeteria went on. A steam table was purchased as well as a stove and chairs added, as the supply was inadequate.

There had never been a kindergarten in the Campbell school, and a committee from the PTA circulated a petition and got enough signatures so that one was opened in a building on Harrison street.

This year the high school PTA presented an outstanding and nationally-known speaker, Edmund V. Cook, to a large audience and the grammar school PTA held an outstanding art exhibit. Both entertainments augmented the treasuries and improvements went on. A couch and screen were secured for the nurse's room and pads and coverings were furnished for the kindergarten room, while new trees were purchased and planted in the grammar school grounds. The gymnasium rest rooms of the high school were furnished, as was the teachers' room in the grammar school.

And then came the well-remembered "depression." Undernourished children were the chief interest of the grammar school PTA during these trying times. An annual clothes drive was promoted and many children were given free milk, cod liver oil, and graham crackers. Many complete lunches were also given. During the most trying summer a great deal of fruit was put up for emergencies.

Because high school students were older and not so dependent, the high PTA had a hard time to keep going. Only by having a series of outstanding lecturers appear

DISPOSAL OF WAR SURPLUSES

On its industrial side, total war operates on the principle of maximum production within the shortest time possible and cost is a secondary consideration. The nation is fighting for its survival, and when the old homestead is ablaze one usually does not stop to haggle over the price of firehose.

Consequently, in this war as in the other World war, present indications are that, in numerous lines of goods, there will be immense surpluses for which the government will have no further use. The problem is what to do with them. There are at least four parties with an interest, though not necessarily an equal interest, in the handling of this matter: the government, the big manufacturer, the small business man and the general public who foot the bills in one form or another.

Recently the treasury procurement division sold thousands of items of chinaware for the average price of eight cents per item. The buyers were various salvage companies. These items were sold before they had even been unpacked from the factory. They were all brand new. At about the same time, the navy department was awarding a contract to a pottery company for 110,000 pieces of the same items at a price of 18 cents each.

The small merchant cannot compete with salvage stores which buy vast stocks of unused government merchandise at prices way below cost. It is true that the taxpayers feel they are entitled to buy these goods at bargain prices inasmuch as they helped pay for them in the first place. It is also true that the small merchant feels that the salvage store constitutes unfair competition. Likewise, the manufacturers, both big and small, cannot profitably run their plants when these vast unused stocks of government goods are flooding the markets. The salvage people contend that their action in purchasing such goods is perfectly legal and any citizen who has the money to do so can bid against them for the same goods.

A bill has been introduced into the house of representatives that would empower the reconstruction finance corporation to appoint an advisory committee, in effect a competent appraisal committee, for each class of property to be leased or sold. Speculation would be discouraged and the disposal of the goods would be through normal trade channels. The prices for a given grade and kind of merchandise would be uniform. Also, the prices fixed should be high enough to enable the government to secure a fair return. The lease or sale of such goods should be at a rate which would not disrupt normal trade and commerce. The welfare of small business, under the terms of the bill, should be considered whenever possible.

If the disposal of government surpluses is handled with skill and a sincere desire to serve the public interest, carefully weighing all the conflicting claims of the various parties at interest, it will be an achievement of major magnitude.

"TALKING" A GOOD FIGHT

The Japanese navy is making a great showing—on the radio. According to one Tokyo broadcast the Nips have destroyed our "striking power" and now have "achieved sea supremacy from the Aleutians to the Bengal gulf."

Guess all those naval victories we had recently must be a mistake—or something. Anyway, won't Admiral Nimitz be surprised when he finds out?

ILL FARES THE LAND . . .

Within 60 days the great turbines at Shasta dam will begin to hum, manufacturing the power whose sale all California for nine years has believed would help finance the Central Valley Water project, created in 1933 for the express purpose of rescuing millions of acres of arid and semi-arid farm lands from devastation.

But there will be no such reasonable procedure if power zealots, who had no part in the original plan, but who step in now to try out their theories, have their way. Already representatives of the bureau of reclamation are attempting to market the power "at cost."

The act California voted for in 1933 was essentially a water project. Congress itself properly understood it so, declaring it to be: "For the purpose of improving navigation, regulating the flow of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, controlling floods, providing for irrigation and reclamation of farm lands and the generation and sale of electric energy as a means of financially assisting in such undertakings."

The water project authority has frankly warned: "The project, as a self-liquidating enterprise, is dependent on the sale of the power which can be produced." Also: "It is essential that the full amount of revenue from this source be secured as soon as possible."

Whether through intent or ignorance, it is plain the theorists who want to play with power do not recognize the basic necessity that moved California to initiate the water plan. With a fine disdain they overlook the general knowledge that public works must be paid for either in revenues or taxes. And they probably will be utterly astonished to find that "power at cost" will have little appeal if it results in exorbitant water rates to California agriculture.

Farmers of the interior valleys will bitterly contest any experiment that spells failure to the vital water project they created. Ill will fare the land indeed if the abstract economists should succeed in turning the big hole in the hills north of Redding from an impounding basin into a watery grave for the great project planned by California to save and maintain its own thirsty agricultural empire.

RED CROSS MONTH

The month of March is Red Cross month—a month in which to help a grand organization devoted to helping humanity.

During March the Red Cross will seek to raise 200 million dollars which is its 1944 minimum war-time need. This amount is greater than last year because the need is much greater.

With the full support from both individuals and business which the Red Cross so richly deserves, there can be little doubt that the goal will be achieved. Retailers, both chain and independent, are planning to increase their donations in keeping with the increased need, and they also plan to display posters and do whatever else is possible to make the drive a success.

This cooperation by the retailers is but one example of the spirit that can be expected the nation over in backing the Red Cross drive.

It requires no recitation on our part of the many activities carried on by the Red Cross to make every one of us realize his responsibility in giving all he can in support of it. Let us not wait until we are asked—let us give spontaneously—generously.

Help the Red Cross to help those in need.

VICTORY OVER DEATH

The following are a few of the medical advances that occurred in 1943: Penicillin became widely known and used; new types of anesthesia were introduced; mosquito control measures were perfected to combat malaria; new uses were found for the sulfonamide drugs; intensive treatment centers were established for syphilis; new facts about vitamin B were discovered; treatment of infected wounds and shock was advanced.

Each of these developments was a victory over death. The medical profession is entitled to banner headlines from one end of the country to the other heralding these life-saving accomplishments.

Judge M. G. Del Mutolo Candidate To Succeed Self

In announcing his candidacy for election to the Santa Clara county superior bench which he has held for two years, Judge M. G. Del Mutolo yesterday pledged himself to a continuance of the conscientious work that has marked his court duties so far.

Judge Del Mutolo, who served two terms in the California state legislature before his appointment to the bench two years ago, has a splendid record during the time he has served this county as superior judge.

For instance, none of his decisions has been reversed by the appellate courts. He was selected by his colleagues, Judges William F. James and John D. Foley, as presiding judge over the three departments of the superior court.

Judge Del Mutolo has heard thousands of matters, many of them important civil and criminal trials, with and without juries, and for a time presided over the juvenile court.

After graduating from university, Judge Del Mutolo was a practicing attorney in San Jose for 17 years. He is 41 years of age. Mrs. Del Mutolo is the former Dolores Wolfe. They have a nine-year-old daughter.

Grammar P.T.A. Meeting Set for 7th

The grammar school P.T.A. will have their regular meeting Tuesday, March 7 at 2:30 p.m. in the kindergarten room at the school. Election of new officers and yearly reports will be part of the business.

Mrs. Donald Baldwin, the chairman of the day, has arranged for an interesting program. The topic will be "Alertness and Safety." In keeping with this theme a moving picture will be shown in the auditorium portraying one of the hazards now existing which threaten civilians and school children. This picture was shown in Willow Glen P.T.A. and was highly praised.

The high 8th grade will sing three numbers, a capella under the direction of Miss Matranga at the opening of the meeting.

A social hour in the cafeteria will close the meeting with the 5th and 6th grade mothers as hostesses. All members are urged to attend.

The executive board will meet at 2 o'clock in the teachers' room.

Melvin Genasci writes that he is in a hospital in India, recovering from an attack of yellow jaundice. After a period spent in the jungles he was transferred to staff headquarters.

W. S. Jennings to Address High PTA

A most interesting program has been planned for the regular meeting of the Campbell Union High School P.T.A. on Wednesday, March 8 at 2:30 p. m. in the little theater.

William S. Jennings, Santa Clara county juvenile probation officer, will speak on the subject of "Delinquency Problems in San Jose."

Mrs. Laura Sporaccia, leader of a group of Camp Fire girls, will present them in a demonstration.

Mrs. W. F. Grattan, chairman of the PTA paper drive, would like to remind all members and friends to bring newspapers and magazines as all money received from the drive will be used for the benefit of the student body.

Mrs. E. R. Kennedy, chairman of the Victory table, requests that all who have donations bring them for this next meeting.

The Cambrian Home and School club with Mrs. O. Price as chairman will be hostesses for the day.

The regular meeting of the executive board will be held at 2 p. m., preceding the regular meeting, with Mrs. H. F. Cousins presiding.

Save Paper for Uncle Sam

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

Battle Surgeon

by Frank G. Slaughter.

Who among us mortal human beings is there a story about surgeons fails to thrill? Here is a novel of a surgeon in North Africa by the author of "That None Should Die" and "Spencer Brade, M. D.", two books that will live as long as people can read. "Battle Surgeon" can be put on the shelf with this author's prior successes. It well deserves its space beside the best.

It is the story of Captain Rick Winters of the U. S. Army Medical Corps who lived in a world of violent death ever since he joined the Loyalists in Spain. He had also seen action at Dunkirk prior to his sailing with the convoy that headed for Algiers and the invasion of North Africa. "Rick", as he was called by his intimates, was struggling through a fog of cynicism and disillusion when he unexpectedly found love during an air raid in England when he brings a cloaked stranger to his lodgings for shelter. After the danger period had passed and all was yet blacked-out, the stranger fled without identifying herself. Rick sailed for the invasion of Africa, carrying with him the memory of her presence.

Algiers was stormed, and Captain Winters worked unceasingly with his scalpel in the thick of the fighting. Through the busy weeks that followed he could not drive the thought of the lovely visitor from his mind. It was during his perilous return across the desert—but why reveal the climax of this deeply interesting and absorbing romantic novel.

Here is a book that gives an exciting picture of the Medical Corps in action. The author is himself a major in the Army. Against an authentic background of war he has written a story of actual war and has threaded the story with romantic strands of love.

"Kiss and Tell" Back to San Francisco March 7

"Kiss and Tell" is coming back to San Francisco. Geo. Abbott, who produced and directed the hilarious comedy which played the Curran for ten weeks earlier this season, has heeded the demand of the management of the Geary theater, and a limited engagement begins at that house on Tuesday evening, March 7. A Monday evening opening is impossible due to transportation facilities, which cannot carry the production from Seattle in time for a Monday opening.

Since leaving San Francisco last December successful engagements were played in Los Angeles, and other southern California cities and Portland, Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., and currently at the Metropolitan theater in Seattle, which has a two-weeks' booking.

The same New York cast that delighted San Francisco theatergoers at the Curran will be seen at the Geary, headed by Katherine Alexander, Jack Davis, and June Dayton.

Three other companies are still playing to capacity houses in midwestern and eastern cities. "Kiss and Tell" was written by F. Hugh Herbert.

Congressman Anderson Writes Home

JOHN Z. ANDERSON
8th DIST. CALIFORNIA

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

February 28, 1944

To My Friends In The Eighth Congressional District:

Our forefathers in drafting the Constitution, wisely provided that every two years our Congressman should come before the people to give an account of his stewardship in national government. Then we examine his record, and express ourselves accordingly. No public official stands closer to the people, and none must account for his service more often.

Therefore the time has come again for me to stand for re-election to Congress, and again I find the press of national business precludes my coming home to campaign. I believe you will agree I should not desert my post in these momentous times to engage in politics.

Since Pearl Harbor Congress has been in almost continuous session, and I have been privileged as a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, to take an unusually active part in our war program, and to have first-hand information upon its conduct. Much of this information, together with that concerning other national affairs, I have passed on to you in my monthly radio talks, and through the courtesy of the press.

We ARE winning this war, but we must realize we have a long and difficult road ahead. Victory WILL be ours, because we fight in the cause of freedom and justice for all people. Perhaps, the greatest task will be the writing of such a peace as will insure security and happiness for our children for generations to come.

With my return to Congress you may be assured of the same full measure of devotion to our nation's well-being, and to your interests. I pride myself upon fair and impartial representation for all of you. To achieve this, it has been necessary for me to turn a deaf ear to pressure groups with selfish proposals, but this shall continue to be my policy.

Because I cannot return to enjoy greeting all my friends and neighbors personally, I must rely upon you to carry on for me, if I am to continue as your representative here. For nearly six years it has been my honor to serve you through some history-making times, an honor that I cherish, and hope will continue. With my future in your hands, I look forward to the vital days ahead with confidence and courage.

My kindest personal regards to all of you.

Sincerely

Jack Anderson

Tough Initiation
The knocking out of boys' teeth as a test of endurance during initiation ceremonies is a fairly common practice among tribesmen, especially in Australia.

Holds Soil Together

If you can incorporate straw in the soil without any damage to cropping, it will be a tremendous benefit. It would be the means of restoring fiber material which helps hold the soil together and lessens the loss from soil blowing and washing. Soil fiber or humus content can only be maintained or increased by addition of nitrogen to the soil. There are some conditions under which some of the stubble must be burned, but you should make every attempt to plow under just as much of it as the rainfall and soil will decompose within a reasonable time.

HISTORY OF P. T. A.

at night meetings were they able to keep even the semblance of an organization. Such speakers as Ruth Comfort Mitchell, Kathleen Norris, Prof. Rogers, and Col. Knowlton Mixer, although they called out a few of the interested, were not enough to keep the unit alive, and in 1932 the unit temporarily disbanded.

During this time the grammar PTA installed the fence along Winchester road.

As time went on the high school was outgrowing its quarters and the need for a larger school was keenly felt. In 1936 the high school unit revived and joining forces with the grammar school unit all efforts were directed to the erection of the present half-million dollar high school plant.

With the school children properly housed the two units have joined hands almost as one to further the interests of the community. Each unit, aided by the other, has contributed to many programs of major and minor importance, and has raised and distributed wisely considerable money for the benefit of the schools and the children.

In closing, a word of thanks here, not only to the members of a loyal community, but to school principals who have always stood behind the two units of PTA in their efforts at betterment of things in general for the youth of our community. We, as members of the PTA, will never know just how much we have tried the patience of these busy men in the past, or how much we may try their patience at all times and in all things that are for the good of the majority.

Opera, Individual
Artists on Denny-
Watrous Schedule

The San Carlo Opera company, now on its 30th tour of the United States and Canada, brings grand opera to the civic auditorium, San Jose, on Monday evening, March 13, in Verdi's four-act masterpiece, "Rigoletto." With Lucille Meusel, of whom the Chicago Herald-Examiner said, "A voice the purest and truest coloratura to be heard today in America," as Gilda; Mario Palermo as the Duke of Mantua; Stephen Ballarini as Rigoletto; Marie Powers as Madalena; Arthur Anderson as the villainous Sparafucile; the complete company of 125, corps de ballet, orchestra and chorus, the San Carlo Opera company gives a magnificent production.

Nelson Eddy, the idol of the American public, sings for the San Jose Concert series on Tuesday evening, March 21. The sensational success of Nelson Eddy, rising from an errand boy and copy desk runner to one of the greatest stars, is stage history.

Baccaloni, basso buffo of the Metropolitan opera, comes on Friday evening, March 24, as the star of the Baccaloni Opera company in "The Barber of Seville." This great singer, compared with Chaliapin, is an attraction of the greatest magnitude. Virgil Thompson, noted critic, said, "The finest piece of acting in the comedy field, not excepting Chaliapin."

Tickets for all three events, which are under the Denny-Watrous management, are on sale at the Denny-Watrous box office, civic auditorium, Columbia 7087.

Electric Power
Meets Wartime NeedsPlanned for Peacetime Progress
READY FOR WAR DEMANDS

PLANNING AHEAD for customers of this company is a job that is never finished. It is always on the drafting boards, on the blue prints and with engineers and construction men.

When the biggest job of all came along—A Nation at War—then the results of foresight and planning were tested. To supply the needs of "all-out" war production with a speed and scope never equalled before, called for Peak Power from this company. And every call for electricity from war industries and the military forces has been met promptly and in full.

Like the logistics of army supply, an electric system must also have carefully planned sources of supply, strategically located, together with available reserves. Thus this company has 64 electric plants with interconnected switch-over facilities serving Northern and Central California. Among these 64 powerhouses are 13 steam power plants to supplement the electric load on its hydro power plants. One big dam, or one big powerhouse or two, could not dependably supply the demands of progressive California.

We ask the continued cooperation of all customers to conserve and save electricity, because military and war industry needs come first.
